This fascinating day with About Tours & Centier Bank will give you an inside look at money: how it is made and lost and where it comes from. Visit the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, located in a landmark Art Deco building in the heart of the Loop. Have you always wondered what the hand signals mean, or how the traders keep track of all the action in the “pits?” You will get these answers and much more during your visit. Eat lunch amidst the colored jackets of traders in The Cellar's Market, a cafeteria in the Board of Trade. You will also visit the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago for a special program where you will learn about the money supply, the design of the new U.S. currency and what causes the prime rate to jump around. During this tour you will hear about the rich and famous residents of Chicago and how money makes the city go round.
